Although most preschool children will move up to their new class assignment in early September, some will move during the summer session because of their readiness and open spots.

We always consider if children are truly ready to move, if their developmental needs will be met, etc. We include you in the transition planning, and arrange for children to visit the new class a few times in advance of the move.

If children show that they need a longer transition time, we allow for that too. This can be a time of great pride, but some anxiety or worry is also very typical.

Every child handles the change differently, but our goal is always the same: to provide your child with a developmentally appropriate setting with caring, knowledgeable teachers.

Here's to a wonderful summer session here at Main Street!
